Ohio County Pledges $20,000 For Federal Highway--Good!

KLEIN REVIVAL

At Methodist Church Closed Monday Night—Over 100 Conversions.

The revival at the Methodist church, which has been in progress for the past two weeks under the leadership of Evangelist Klein, of Nashville, Tenn., closed Monday night.

There were one hundred and fifty-two conversions. Sixty-seven united with the Methodist church, about thirty-five will join the Baptist, and the other denominations will get the remainder.

One thing noticeable during the series of meetings was the absolute unity of the different denominations—all the churches of the city working in harmony to make the meeting as great a success as possible and to awaken old Hartford spiritually. As a result much good was accomplished as is evidenced by the above number who professed faith in Christ.

Mr. Renshaw, the singer, left Monday for his home in Detroit. Rev. Klein and Mr. Grace left yesterday for Dallas, Texas. After a rest of a week or so they will be joined by Mr. Renshaw and will begin a series of meetings in the Texas city.

That the meeting was a success in every particular goes without saying, and we trust the good accomplished by this series of meetings will be lasting.

At the conclusion of the service Sunday night, $405 was raised to pay Bro. Klein for his services during the two weeks. Adding to this the budget, to pay current expenses and the musicians, of $225, brings the total amount raised to $630.

While in Hartford, Rev. Klein was the guest of the family of Dr. J. B. Tappan.

MARRIED AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE

Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of the bride, Rev. B. W. Napier spoke the words which made Mr. C. T. Miller, of Springfield, Ohio, and Miss Nellie King, daughter of Mr. Dan King, of Hartford, man and wife.

Mr. Miller formerly lived at Owensboro, but has been with the circulation department of the Crowell Publishing Co., of Springfield, Ohio, for some time.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for Franklin, Ky., where Mr. Miller has a crew of men working for his concern.

HOGS SELLING

At the Highest Price in the History Of All Markets.

Cincinnati, O.—Hogs sold within five cents of $13 a hundred pounds at the Union Stock Yards last week, the highest price paid in the history of the market. Stock yards commission men estimated that there is a shortage of 1,000,000 at the 11 principal markets of the country.

Hogs also sold in Chicago yards at $12.05, and new high prices were made elsewhere.

CLOSE BID

Hopkinsville Contractor Second Lowest On Davis Obelisk.

Bids for the erection of the Jefferson Davis obelisk at Fairview, were opened last Saturday. The lowest bidder was Gregg, of Louisville, whose bid was $73,000, with cash payment reductions reducing it to about $70,000. The next lowest bidder was M. G. Moore, of this city, $79,000. Other bids ran much higher. The obelisk is 36 feet square at the base, a hollow shaft 351 feet high.—[Hopkinsville Kentuckian.]

ILL-FATED FAMILY.

Hopkinsville.—Two deaths have already occurred in the family of W. M. Sloane, of the eastern part of this county, and five other members of the family are ill of measles. Mr. Sloane himself is the only one in the family who hasn't had the disease. Vance Sloane, aged eighteen, a member of Company D, which recently returned from the border, contracted the disease six days after he reached home. He was practically well, when he developed pneumonia and died. His brother, Willie Sloane, aged twenty-one, also died of the disease.

NOW LEGAL TENDER.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Potatoes valued at 3½ cents each retail were accepted in lieu of legal tender here today. A newspaper reporter, using a market basket as a purse, gave a taxicab chauffeur six of them for a ride of two blocks.

"If the company won't accept them, I'll pay the fare and take them home myself," the chauffeur said.

At a 5-and-10 cents store the reporter bought two "diamonds" and a picture frame with his tubers.

HARTFORD SOLDIER DIES ON BORDER

Sergeant W. C. Liles Victim Of Pneumonia—Farmer In Civil Life.

News was received in Hartford Wednesday morning that Sergeant W. C. Liles, who had been ill several days with pneumonia had died at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

The death of Sergeant Liles was a great shock to his many friends in and around Hartford, where he was well known and well liked.

Sergeant Liles, in civil life, was a farmer, and lived about five miles north of Hartford. He had been a member of Co. H, since its organization in 1906—had risen to the rank of First Sergeant, and was in line for promotion to Second Lieutenant when death claimed him.

The remains of Sergeant Liles arrived at Beaver Dam at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, and was met there by the pall-bearers from the local Masonic Lodge of which he was a member. Arriving in Hartford about 6 o'clock, the body, accompanied by a large number of Masons and friends left here about 9 o'clock for Mt. Hermon where the burial took place.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Harper and the local lodge of Masons at 12 o'clock. The floral tributes were beautiful, and especially so that of Company H, which was a large blanket made into an American flag.

The body of Sergeant Liles was accompanied from Ft. Bliss by his fellow-soldier, Forest Hudson. Besides his mother, Sergeant Liles leaves two brothers, Richard, of Kansas City, Mo., and Leman Liles, and two sisters, Mrs. Lonnie Hoover, and Mrs. C. B. Shown, wife of Captain Shown.

Hubert A. Burdette, a well known farmer, and Miss Rena Wilson, both of Ohio county, were married in Rockport, Ind., Wednesday afternoon. The marriage ceremony was performed in the office of the county Clerk of Spencer county by Esq. Harry Poole. After the ceremony the couple returned to their home.—[Owensboro Messenger.]

$1,300 FOR CROP

On Twelve Acres Of Tobacco Realized By John Randolph.

John H. Randolph, who lives near Maggie, realized $1,300 for twelve acres of tobacco grown last year. He sold his tobacco at ten cents around, and the total weight of the crop of twelve acres was 13,000 pounds. He finished delivering last Tuesday to Cadiz. The entire crop was stripped after the first of January. This has been a great year for tobacco growers, and Mr. Randolph is only one of many of our friends who have been able to profit by the high prices.

Genius is a handsome name frequently given to hard-working men after they have finished a tough job.—[The American Magazine.]

Fiscal Court In Session Yesterday Unanimously Voted to Pledge $20,000 for Ohio County to Build Its Part of Road The First Year.

"Scrap" On at Frankfort Tomorrow!

At a meeting of the Fiscal Court yesterday morning it was unanimously voted that Ohio county divert the money appropriated for other roads in the county, and pledge $20,000 for the building of the Federal Highway.

Judge Wilson, accompanied by a good delegation, goes to Frankfort today to appear before the Sinking Fund Commissioners tomorrow that Ohio county pledges itself to build its part of this great road. All the counties along the Central Route will put up a stubborn fight to bring the highway through this section, and here's hoping that they win out.

The scrap is on at Frankfort tomorrow!

The Ohio County Central Federal Highway Club was called to order by Chairman John B. Wilson at the court house Saturday at one o'clock.

A good crowd was present and much interest was manifested.

Mr. Rowan Holbrook introduced a resolution, which on motion and second was adopted, as follows:

"Be it resolved, That we request the Fiscal Court of Ohio county to appropriate out of the levy of 1917 taxes the sum of $20,000 (twenty thousand dollars) to be used in the construction of the proposed Federal and State Highway through Ohio county, and to do what else they will or may properly and legally do to secure the construction of said highway through the county and that this mass meeting will in every way endorse and stand by the said court for their acts herein.

"Be it further resolved, That our County Judge, Hon. John B. Wilson, is hereby appointed our representative to attend the Federal State Highway meeting at Frankfort, March 1st, with the assurance of this mass meeting that Ohio county bear its quota of the cost of said highway through Ohio county."

The highway was discussed by Mr. J. H. Barnes, the Beaver Dam banker, Judge Z. T. Proctor, of Leitchfield, and Dr. E. W. Ford, of Hartford.

They all agree that, as a matter of personal pride and progressive-ism, if no other, the people of Ohio county should exert themselves to secure this highway, and at least, stand back of those who are making an effort to bring the Federal Road through this section.

As we have before said, we believe the highway's value to the county would be inestimable, and we can see no reason why our people would not be glad of the opportunity to build their part of this great trunk highway through Ohio county, especially so as the Government will pay half and the State about one-fourth of the cost of building same.

President Decides To Take New Oath Sunday

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson has decided to call an extra session of the Senate for March 5 to consider nominations. This was officially announced at the White House today.

It was recently reported that the President was reconsidering breaking another precedent by not convening the Senate for the usual post-inaugural session. The President's decision to have the usual extra session paves the way for the customary inaugural ceremonies in the Senate chamber of the Vice President.

CHOOSES PRISON RATHER THAN REVEAL HIS NAME

Chicago.—"James McCarthy," 26 years old, will be sentenced to two months unless he reveals his right name. He was found guilty of burglary yesterday, committed four months ago. The Judge told him he would be paroled if he gave his right name; that under the law prisoners may not be paroled under assumed names. "McCarthy" said he would rather serve two years in prison than give his name and bring disgrace on a reputable family.

It also was definitely decided today that President Wilson will take his new oath of office in private in the White House on Sunday, March 4th.

Whether he will take it again at the public ceremony on March 5th, or merely make that the occasion for delivering his inaugural address, has not been decided.

A State Department ruling today made clear that the President may wait and not take any oath at all until March 5th, if he chooses to do.

PRESIDENT WILSON SALUTES THE FLAG

Washington, D. C.—President Wilson participated in George Washington's birthday exercises here today, at which frequent reference was made to the present international situation. "It is much less of an adventure to write history than to try to enact it," said the President in presenting a gold medal to a schoolboy for writing an essay on history.

The President pledged allegiance anew to the American flag and, with the remainder of an audience including members of the Cabinet, diplomats and Congressmen, he stood at salute while the pledging of allegiance was repeated.

A. C. PATTERSON ARRESTED.

Owensboro, Ky.—A. C. Patterson, assistant postmaster at Point Pleasant, Ohio county, was arrested today by United States Deputy Marshal Joe Jackson on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails. The accused waived examining trial and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge. He was bound over by United States Commissioner C. W. Wells to await the action of the May Federal grand jury. He was later released from custody upon execution of bond of $1,000, with L. L. Patterson, of Point Pleasant, as surety.

The accused is charged with fraudulently depriving Paul T. Batzer, of Baltimore, of $225, and Sergeant Goble, of Columbus, O., of $10 in falsely advertising a hydroplane motor and other high-power boats claimed to be manufactured by him.

BERKSHIRE BOAR SOLD FOR $1,000 IN INDIANA

Lafayette, Ind.—A 4-year-old Berkshire boar, sired by Epochal, an English hog, sold for $1,000 today at the annual sale in connection with the American Berkshire Congress Convention at Purdue University. The price paid, it is said, establishes a record for hogs under 6 months old.

13 LOSE LIVES, 100 INJURED IN TORNADES

Portions Of Three States Swept; Many Houses Damaged.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 23.—Thirteen persons are known to have lost their lives and more than a hundred have been reported injured in a series of tornadoes that swept portions of Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi today. The most serious loss of life was in Middle Alabama. Seven persons were killed in the Hollins-Midway-Stewardsville section of Alabama, and at Whitesett, Ala., four negroes were killed in the destruction of their cabins.

Much timber was blown down and many residences were damaged. Two negroes were killed at Lithonia, Ga., where at least sixty small dwellings were demolished. Six children were injured in a storm at Georgetown, Miss. Small tornadoes also struck near Wetumpka, Ala., and Hartsboro, Ala., causing minor property damage.

The tornado was about a mile long and was moving east. Practically every house in Hollins was damaged and in some cases residences were completely demolished. Collapsing were down.

All wires east of the tornado were cut and there is no communication with that thickly settled section. The storm was moving in that direction. It is feared the loss of life may be greater than now reported.

A number of the killed and injured were school children, as the schoolhouses in each of the three towns of Hollins, Stewardsville and Midway were demolished.

Several Injured In Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 23.—Several persons were injured, some of them seriously, three churches and many other buildings were demolished and thousands of dollars' worth of window glass broken by a tornado which struck Idabel, Okla., today. None of the injured is expected to die, although some were blown considerable distances, along with domestic animals and wreckage of all kinds.

NICE ANIMAL.

Bern Beaven recently sold to a Mr. Bennett, of South Carolina, an 18-months old mule for $225. The price is said to have been the highest received by a Marion county farmer in years for a mule of that age.—[Lebanon Enterprise.]

AIR CASTLES.

A. T. Brown has bought from J. C. Yates the old Overall building and lot for $650. No sooner than it became public that the deal was made, the capitalists of the town got together and installed an overall plant, built a hotel, bored several oil wells, moved Ham Guthrie's broom factory to town, all in one day; it was a rainy day, too.—[Bradfordville Cor. Lebanon Enterprise.]

HEART TROUBLE

Causes Death Of Mrs. Henry Leach—Wife Of Former Superintendent.

After battling for several days with heart trouble, Mrs. Henry Leach (who, before her marriage, was Miss Susan M. Jones), died about twelve o'clock Tuesday night. Mrs. Leach's death was momentarily expected, and her family was at the bedside when the end came.

Mrs. Leach was born near Cromwell, May 29, 1873, and moved to Hartford when her husband was elected Superintendent of county schools about seven years ago.

Being her husband, who is teacher in the Hartford city school, Mrs. Leach is survived by a son, Hinton, two sisters, Mesdames R. A. Sanderfur and Francis Parks, and two brothers, G. P. Jones and Rev. G. G. Jones.

Funeral services were conducted at the family residence Thursday afternoon by Rev. B. W. Napier, after which her remains were laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery.

LUKE MARTIN GUILTY FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Verdict Removes All Danger Of Mob Violence In Calloway County.

Murray, Ky., Feb. 22.—A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, carrying a penalty of death, was returned by a jury in the Calloway County Circuit Court here this afternoon in the case of Luke Martin, negro charged with killing Guthrie Duiguid, a Deputy Sonstable. The verdict apparently has removed danger of a mob outbreak, and the troops are expected to leave for their home station in the morning. Martin will be taken to Hopkinsville, and the others, accused as accomplices in the case, will be taken to Paducah for safe-keeping.

The jury was out but one hour and took only one ballot.

A motion for a new trial is to be acted upon tomorrow morning, after which Judge Bush will pass sentence on the negro.

SIMPSON WHEAT GROWERS RIDICULE HENDERSON YARN

Experts Say It Is Too Early To Prophesy Loss Of Crop By Blizzard.

Franklin, Ky., Feb. 22.—The decision of the wheat growers of Henderson county to plow up their wheat fields, under the belief that the crop had been killed by blizzards, was ridiculed by the best growers in this county today, who say that the loss has not been less severe than in the winter of 1905, and the wheat in this part of the county is in better condition than in Henderson county. Henderson county's crop could not possibly be as good as John Hatter, one of the best growers and a practical authority, insists that the roots are not killed and that he will make thirty-five bushels to the acre on one fifty-acre field. Other growers say that by May 1 one may determine whether the blizzard has seriously damaged the growing crop, but prior to that time it is not safe to hazard a prophecy.

MRS. F. BRIGGS GETS $2,175 VERDICT

Mrs. F. Briggs, of Louisville, was recently awarded $2,175 in a suit against the Cleveland Railway Co. for injuries received by a street car running into her machine about a year ago.

This will be of interest to Ohio county people as Mrs. Briggs is a sister of the late J. P. Stevens, who died a few weeks ago.

SPRING POULTRY WORK.

Pullets for Egg Laying Next Fall and Winter Should Be Hatched Early.

The poultry raiser on farm or in city who wishes to produce fall and winter eggs with a by-product of spring "fryers" should begin now to plan for the early setting of eggs, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. In the States of the extreme South settings should be made from the first to the middle of February; in the central group of States, from the early part to the last of February; and in the northern tier of States, from the latter part of February to the early part of April. With settings timed on this schedule the chicks will hatch in ample time to allow their maturity before cold weather. The pullets from these broods should lay during the late fall or early winter when eggs are scarce.

The setting schedule outlined also will permit the development of early spring "fryers." The young chicks will be developed to the point where they may be turned out on the ground by the time vegetation is out, and so may augment their feed with green stuff. The smaller breeds of chickens can be hatched later than those which are larger and slower to develop.

Incubation.

One difficulty in setting eggs in spring at selected dates if the natural system of incubation is followed is in finding broody hens at the proper times. If natural incubation is depended upon exclusively it probably will be best for the poultry raiser to disregard dates and make settings whenever broody hens are available. A good nest for setting is made of wood, 15 inches square and about 15 inches high, with a top. The front is open except for a board 6 inches high. Three or four inches of damp earth should be placed in such a nest and on this straw, hay or chaff should be grimly packed. The hens should be dusted thoroughly with insect powder. It is a good plan, also, to sprinkle a little of the powder in the nests.

Using An Incubator.

The suggested schedule can be followed exactly if an incubator is used. The machine should be operated in a warm room, preferably a cellar, as a protection against outside temperature changes. It should be disinfected thoroughly before being used, with a solution of a reliable coal-tar disinfectant. Instead of using such a solution a small receptacle containing one-half ounce of permanganate of potash on which one-half ounce of formalin has been poured may be shut up in the incubator. The resulting gas will thoroughly disinfect the machine. After disinfection the incubator should be run empty for several days to get it into good operating condition. After the eggs are in place the temperature should be held at from 101½ degrees to 102 degrees F., the first week, 102 degrees to 103 degrees the second week, and at 103 degrees the third week.

The eggs usually are turned for the first time at the end of the second day and twice daily through the eighteenth or nineteenth day. The eggs are cooled outside the hatching chamber once daily after the seventh and up to the nineteenth day. Moisture should be furnished in artificial incubation in the South, in high altitudes, and when the incubator room is dry. This may be done by sprinkling the eggs with warm water or by placing a wet sponge or pan of water under the egg tray.

During the hatching period carefully fill the lamp and trim the wick each day. It is best to trim the wick by scraping off the burnt portion rather than by cutting the wick. The lamp should not be filled entirely. After the lamp is filled it should be closely observed for a time to make sure that the flame does not get too high.

CAN'T YOU TEACH ONE?

Kentucky has three years in which to remove her illiteracy if the slogan—"No illiteracy in Kentucky in 1920"—is realized. If other counties worked like Clay and Leslie and Cumberland, for instance, there would be no illiteracy in the State in 1918. In these three counties 1,967 persons learned to read and write in 1916. In a number of counties as many as one hundred were taught and in some fifty men and women learned to read and write. During this winter, many citizens are teaching. Some editors are teaching and some doctors are teaching, some bankers, some lawyers and judges, some women and even children are teaching one to read and write. A woman in Versailles has taught seven in her home. A little girl in Winchester has taught four colored illiterates. The president of the Illiteracy Commission, Mrs. Stewart, while directing the State-wide campaign with its heavy duties, has taught one, herself, since November. The Federation of Women's Clubs plans to teach ten thousand this winter and spring by each teaching one.

This is Kentucky's great work. It originated in Kentucky and the eradication of illiteracy will be to the lasting glory of Kentucky. But, better than this it opens up to men and women the world of books. Have you taught one yet in Kentucky's campaign against illiteracy?

SHAVES 76 MILES OF FACE.

Ring down the curtain on a life of thrills, "close shaves" and "hair-raising" incidents. Andrew Hebenstreit has retired after 52 years of barbering in his own shop in this city. "Andy" claims a State record. He has been in charge of his shop since 1887, and has shaved 301,230 persons. His own statistics show he has cut 41,622 heads of hair. He averages 150 shaves and 20 hair cuts a week.

"Andy's" father opened the first shop in Shullsburg in 1866, and managed it until 1887, when his son took charge. Three sons of Andrew have likewise been barbers in the same shop, but are now engaged in other professions.

During 42 years of service Mr. Hebenstreit has missed being at his chair only seven Saturdays. On five of these days he was ill. He estimates he has shaved 76 miles of human face 10 yards a day. He has clipped 20 tons of hair and all grown in Lafayette county says "Andy."—[Detroit News.]

FIVE CENTS A MILE.

Within a short time the price of a 1,000-mile mileage book is likely to go to $25, and there are shrewd traffic men among the railroad executives of the country who today say that within 20 years it will cost five cents a mile to ride upon the railroad, as against an average fare of 2½ cents today.—[Collier's.]

Rail Head Addresses Rural

Life and School Conference

Bowling Green, Ky.—Rodman Wiley, of the State roads department, and Fred Mutchler, of the extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture, addressed the Rural Life and Rural School Conference, in progress last this week, the latter confining his talk to farms, and the former to roads. President Peyton, of the N. C. & St. L. railroad, spoke on the dependence of the railroad upon agriculture, and the importance of transportation and markets to the modern farm. He paid a tribute to President H. H. Cherry, originator of the conference, asserting that such gatherings as this go a long way toward enabling every class and profession to understand the honest aims and purposes of each other.

Frankly admitting mistakes and dishonesty on the part alike of some railroads and some farmers, President Peyton urged that the past be overlooked and that all present determine to aid in solving problems of the South. Co-operation is the keynote of modern development, he said.

Dr. P. G. Holden, the great Iowa corn and alfalfa expert, who was here throughout the conference, said:

"This is by all means the greatest agricultural meeting I have ever attended. I believe it is the greatest ever held in America."

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart received an enthusiastic greeting when she presented the moonlight school as a solution to Kentucky's adult illiteracy problem.

Special classes on county churches, county schools, farms, poultry, birds and roads were largely attended. State Sanitary Engineer Curry exhibited models and photographs showing what constitutes a sanitary farm homestead.

LIVES AND TEACHES SCHOOL IN A BOX CAR

"For the past three years," we read in the March American Magazine, "Miss Ida Hartford of near Proctor, N. C., has been living in one half of a box car and teaching school in the other half. She gave up a home of refinement and comfort, even luxury, to answer the call that came from her heart."

"At the request of the missionary society of her church, Miss Hartford took charge of the children of about eighty lumbermen and their wives, as far as the lumbermen would let her. At first, this was not far from there seemed to be a fear of education. The children were unwashed, undressed, unfed. There was no attempt at teaching the three R's."

"The hardships that Miss Hartford has to endure would have broken the courage of many men, but the results of the dreary days and minutes of toiling that Miss Hartford has devoted to her chosen work now show. The youngsters—seventeen of them—are rapidly becoming more like the children they should be. Imagine a baby of four or five years of age chewing tobacco and occasionally drinking whiskey. In many of the homes now, grace is even said before meals. Long ago she contributed all of her means available."

UPHOLDS SANCTITY OF HOME.

One of the hardest legal battles that has been fought in the Breckinridge Circuit Court for many years was ended Saturday afternoon, the 17th.

Claude Milburn, plaintiff, sued Clifton Slaton for alienating his wife's affections, for the sum of $5,000.

The jury was unanimous in favor of upholding the sacredness of the home, and returned their verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff was represented by Haswell and Walls and the defendant was represented by Gen. David R. Murray and Senator Gus Brown. Each attorney was allowed thirty-five minutes to present his side of the case to the jury.—[Cloverport News.]

Cold Sores and Fever Blisters

are only outward manifestations of the inflammation of the mucous surface that lines the lungs, the stomach and all the digestive tract, but they give you evidence of how sore a membrane may become as a result of inflammation, which is stagnation of the blood, rightfully called acute catarrh.

If you suffer from such conditions don't let them become chronic, don't run the risk of systemic catarrh.

Times are hard with us, but I can scarcely afford to do without Peruna, especially during the season of the year when coughs and colds are prevalent. HOUSE PASSES BONE DRY BILL UP TO WILSON

Prohibition Legislation Is Adopted By Vote of 321 to 72.

PREVENTS LIQUOR SHIPMENTS

Into Any of Twenty-Five Arid States—Ban Placed On Newspaper Ads.

Washington, D. C.—Prohibition legislation of the most drastic nature was approved by Congress when the House by a vote of 321 to 72 accepted the Senate rider to the Post-office Administration Bill, making it a crime to send intoxicating liquor into States where its manufacture and sale is prohibited.

Coupled with this provision, which will have the effect of making twenty-five States "bone dry" was provision that newspapers, circulars, cards carrying liquor advertisements cannot be carried through the United States mails into States where publication of such advertisements are forbidden. Eleven States now have such laws.

The most curious line-up of "wet" and "dry" forces that Congress has seen since the birth of prohibition movement, developed on the final roll call on the so-called Reed amendment. Many "dry" members opposed the drastic measure on the ground that it would nullify State laws which do not restrict "personal use" and that it would prove harmful to the cause. Many "wet" members voted for it because they believed in giving the alleged "dry" States a taste of prohibition that prohibits.

Fanatical Action.

All arguments advanced against such drastic legislation by either "near dries" or "wets" were swept aside in the almost fanatical determination of the House to carry prohibition legislation to its greatest heights. "Dry" members tried to show how the legislation would hurt the cause of prohibition; but "bone dry" members refused to listen; "wets" sought to demonstrate the harmful effects, in a financial way, of such sumptuary legislation and other "wets" followed the principle: "If they want prohibition let's give them the real thing."

Of the Kentucky members of the House only two voted against the legislation. They were Representatives Swager Sherley, of Louisville, and A. B. Rouse, of Burlington. Those voting for the Reed amendment were: Alben W. Barkley, of Paducah; David H. Kincheloe, of Madisonville; Robert Y. Thomas, Jr., of Central City; Harvey Helm, of Stanford; J. Campbell Cantrill, of Georgetown; William J. Fields, of Olive Hill; John W. Langley, of Pikeville, and Caleb Powers, of Barbourville.

Representative Ben Johnson was called from the House by the death of Joel T. Pile, his former secretary, and did not reach the Capitol again until after the vote had been taken. He declined later to state how he would have voted.

"RECORD PRESS" GOES INTO HANDS OF RECEIVER

W. B. Lennan, one of the publishers of the Record Press, Hardinsburg, filed suit in the Breckenridge Circuit Court against his partner, J. W. Willis, asking that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the business. He says that the firm owes over $2,000 and that he and Willis do not agree as to the conduct of the business and are unable to continue it. He, therefore, prays for a receiver to take charge of it.

Judge Layman named Master Commissioner, Lee Walls, as receiver. (Cloverport News.)

THE AVERAGE VOCABULARY

Persons Of Fair Education Can Control From 30,000 To 50,000 Words.

The Chautauqua Magazine said a few years ago: "It is estimated that an English farm hand has a vocabulary limited to 300 words. An American workman who reads the newspapers may command from 700 to 1,000 words. Five thousand is a large number, even for an educated reader or speaker." This differs considerably from the statement published in a recently compiled English encyclopedia, which states that "it has been reckoned that the agricultural laborer uses about 1,500 words, but this is probably an overestimate. Intelligent artisans have a vocabulary of 4,000 words, while educated persons are familiar with, if they do not use, 8,000 to 10,000 words." This is a step forward all along the line, but it is a long distance from Dr. Joseph Jacobs' discoveries. In a recent review Dr. Jacobs said "that the average well-educated American Englishman can control from 30,000 to 35,000 words." But given an individual with a vocabulary of 10,000 primitive words, it is a simple matter for him to increase his stock of words by the use of prefixes and suffixes. From four to six derivatives may be formed by the use of these from nearly every primitive word. If proper names be added to either of these totals (40,000 to 60,000) they might yield a total of 50,000 to 70,000 terms.

The foregoing facts seem to warrant these general conclusions: Every well-read person of fair ability and education will be able to define or to understand as used nearly or quite, perhaps, more than 50,000 words. And the same person in conversation and writing will command not fewer than 15,000 to 20,000, and can add 5,000 to 10,000 to these numbers if he be literary inclined. The plain people, as Lincoln liked to call them, used or read understandingly from 8,000 to 10,000 words, according to their general intelligence, and conversational power. (New York Times.)

KENTUCKIAN DIES IN WEST AT AGE OF 99

Jacob C. Marsh Was Last Survivor of Seminole Indian War
Of 1837.

Lincoln, Neb.—Jacob C. Marsh, born in Hardin county, Kentucky, last survivor of the Seminole Indian War of 1837, died at his home in Lincoln last week at the age of 99 years and seven months. He was sick only three days and on the Sunday before his death he went to Sunday School. His wife, Mrs. Marsh, was a cousin of Daniel Boone and likewise came from Kentucky. Mrs. Marsh taught her husband how to read and write.

A few months ago Mr. Marsh astonished City Clerk Berg by coming to the latter's office to be registered as a voter. So active did he appear that Mr. Berg thought nothing of the matter until he happened to notice "99" in the blank for the age of the would-be voter.

"What do you want to be voting for at your age?" asked Mr. Berg.

"Why quit now," laughed Marsh. "I've been voting the Democratic ticket for seventy-eight years and I don't want to quit yet."

Born in Kentucky in July, 1817, Mr. Marsh's family later moved to Missouri and still later to Iowa and Nebraska. In 1835 Mr. Marsh participated in the short, but bitter, Seminole Indian War and was pensioned by the Government as a result. His death winds up the pensioners of the Seminole War. When the Civil War broke out Mr. Marsh tried to enlist but was too old and was refused because of being past the age limit.

His mind was absolutely clear to the very day of his death and he remembered events which happened in Hardin and other Kentucky counties nearly 100 years ago.

RABBIT RACES TRAIN.

As pretty a race as any sportsman would like to see took place on the outskirts of Canaan yesterday between a jack rabbit and a freight train run by two locomotives on the Central New England Railroad.

First the rabbit led, then the train, but after crossing the Housatonic river on the ice the rabbit sprang ahead and kept the lead with the mile dash. Measurements in the snow showed that the victor cleared 12 feet with every jump going down grade. (Winsted (Conn.) Cor. New York Herald.)

PROMOTION IS WON BY JOHN J. PERSHING Commander That Invaded Mexico Selected For Important Position.

Washington, D. C.—Major General John J. Pershing formally was appointed commander of the Southern Department succeeding Major General Frederick Funston. The appointment will take effect immediately and does not require confirmation by the Senate.

Adjutant General McCain was instructed to make out the papers for President Wilson's signature, and since they cannot reach San Antonio for some days, Major General Scott, Chief of Staff, informed General Pershing by wire that he had been named.

General Pershing, while in command of the expedition into Mexico, was stated for command of the department of New Mexico, which it was proposed to create if military operations on a large scale were undertaken in Mexico. As the plan never was put into effect, General Pershing was sent to command the entire El Paso district and the largest concentration of troops on the border when he returned from Mexico. After General Funston's death he took over command of the Southern Department automatically as senior officer in the jurisdiction.

There is considerable speculation as to who will be nominated Major General to take the vacancy in that grade in the line created by General Funston's death. A process of selection is exercised in the promotion of army general officers, the seniority rule applying only to the grade of Colonel and below. Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the canal zone, is ranking Brigadier General.

El Paso, Tex.—General Pershing plans to leave here for San Antonio, where he will take charge of the department of which he has been in temporary command since the death of General Funston.

While no announcement has yet been made it is expected here that Brigadier General George Bell, Jr., will resume command of the El Paso patrol district.

In his telegram announcing his appointment General Scott also sent his personal congratulations to General Pershing upon his appointment.

THREE AIDS TO BIG EGG-YIELD.

The poultryman who wishes to have a profitable, laying flock for the season just ahead, must do three things NOW.

First, he must make his poultry house ready for the laying flock. This means that he must make it perfectly weather tight, repairing roof and windows if need be; that he must clean it thoroughly and either whitewash it or spray it with kerosene and zenoleum or kresol; that he must thoroughly renovate roosts and nests; that he must refill the loft with clean straw; provide new sand and litter, hoppers for dry mash, for grit, shells, and charcoal, a table or shelf for pans or crocks for water and milk, and a cheese box of road rust or hard coal ashes, needed as breeders or for family use.

He must determine the capacity of his house in order that the laying flock may not be crowded. Each laying hen needs at least four square feet of floor space. If an enclosed scratching shed is included, this may be considered in making calculations of the amount of floor space. If a considerable number of old fowls is to be kept over, it will be worth while to divide the poultry house proportionally between old and young.

He must gather in all the young chickens from brooder houses, coops, boxes, trees and bushes, for a thorough culling of the flock. He must give pullets, hatched in April and May, a chance to make good. They will lay in January and February if properly housed and fed. He must dispose of all old stock, except birds desired as breeders; also old roosters and cockerels, excepting those needed as breeders or for family consumption. Colony houses may be utilized for cockerels and surplus stock until they can be profitably marketed.

HOW TO SPROUT OATS FOR CHICKENS

To lighten the grain ration for chickens and to keep them in good condition, a green food such as sprouted oats is satisfactory. Soak the oats over night in a pail of water to which has been added a teaspoonful of formalin, to prevent mold. Spread the oats out an inch thick on a tray which is provided with drainage. Sprinkle with warm water twice a day. Stir occasionally until the sprouts start. When 3 or 4 inches high, the sprouts will be ready for use. Another method suggested is to allow a quart of oats to be soaked in a pail of water over night and the surplus water poured off next morning. The oats are then washed three times with clear water to remove mold or smut spores and spread one-quarter inch deep on shallow trays. These trays, which have wire mosquito netting bottoms, are placed in a warm room and the oats kept damp. In about five days they are ready for feeding and make an excellent midday food for young chicks or mature fowls. About a cubic inch a day of sprouted oats is sufficient for a hen and half the amount for a chick.

WOMAN MURDERED BY SON LEAVES ESTATE OF $20,000

Property Bequeathed To Sister and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Lagrange, Ky.—The will of Mrs. Annie Wheeler, who was killed in Louisville a week ago, was probated in the County Court here. After providing for her son, Gilbert, she wills her property to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, of Louisville. She expresses the desire that in no event shall her half brother, Newton Button, have any part of the estate. D. H. French is appointed executor, and it is requested that no inventory of the property be made. The will is dated November 5, 1909, and J. R. Clark, W. Z. Russell and I. T. Risley witnessed the document.

Newton Button, the half brother mentioned in the will, committed suicide about a year ago at his home about four miles south of this place. The act was supposed to have been caused by brooding over ill health and intense suffering. The estate of Mrs. Wheeler is estimated at from $18,000 to $20,000.

The verdict was "guilty as charged," but it included a recommendation for "extreme mercy," and the court made the sentence an half hour's imprisonment.

IF IT'LL JUST HOLD OUT.

The evangelists have come and gone, and there is no disputing the fact that old Hartford is a much better town, from a religious standpoint, now than it was before the arrival of Bro. Klein and his singer and musician.

It is true that the evangelist may have said things, during the series of meetings just held, that did not set well with many of us, but there is no denying the fact that he caused us all to "set up and take notice" and that there are men (and women, too) in Hartford, from all walks of life, who today are endeavoring to live better lives, set better examples before our young people and feel that the Christian life is the only one, than they did a little more than two weeks ago.

The business and professional men of the city (most of them) have become interested, as evidenced by the men's meetings held in the lodge hall two mornings last week, where big strong men unburdened their souls and confessed to one another their weaknesses and shortcomings along the line of Christianity. We were glad to be numbered among "those present" at these meetings, and we say, without fear of contradiction, that the spirit of "old-time religion" that "makes you love everybody" was more clearly manifested in these two services than any we have ever attended. There, men pledged themselves to help one another live the Christ life, and instead of sneering at the man who is endeavoring to live right, slap him on the shoulder and say: "Bully for you, old man, I'm for you from tip to toe." That's the only way to make our town better, and that's the kind of town in which we all want to live.

The sound of Bro. Wlein's voice, the sweet notes of Mr. Renshaw's beautiful songs and the vibration of the strings of the piano so skillfully manipulated by Mr. Grace have hardly died away, and we have not had time to tell how long those who have pledged themselves to do better will live up to it, but we do know that the revival just closed at the Methodist church has done a world of good in Hartford—IF IT'LL JUST HOLD OUT.

SPEAK OUT.

In many counties farmers have formed organizations through which to express themselves to the General Assembly now in extra session. So far as we have seen reported not a single one of these organizations has approved the proposed bills. Could the citizens of Ohio county, especially the farmers, realize the far-reaching effect of this proposed class legislation, certainly they would meet and in a public way express their views. The following questions might be profitably considered.

(1) Do you favor the creation of a Tax Commission at an expense of at least $34,000 a year?
(2) If such a commission is created, should the members be elected by and responsible to the people, or should they be appointed so that the positions may be used as a political asset in every contest for the Governorship?

(3) If members are appointed, as proposed without regard to their knowledge of property values, should they be given power to fix the values, for taxing purposes of every class of property in every county in the State with no provision for review by any other tribunal?

(4) Do you favor a law which places the whole burden of local taxation on real estate and other tangible property, relieving from such taxation stocks, bonds, notes, money and all other intangible property?

(5) Is it fair to tax money in the pocket or private safe four times as much as that in bank?

(6) Should long loans be penalized by taxing mortgages having as much as three years to run and exempting those maturing within three years?

(7) Generally, do you favor laws which tax heaviest those least able to pay?

Many other questions could be suggested for discussion. You will notice the representatives of other interests: oil, coal, lumber, railroad, public utility, bank and money, are presenting arguments for or against special provisions that have been suggested affecting their property or business; but you will find that these all agree to the provisions which will compel the farmer and small property owner to pay the "lion's share" of the taxes.

To "kick" after it's all over will do no good. Now is the time to speak out.

YOUR LOCAL PAPER.

Do you realize the value of your local paper when sharply criticizing it, and in a scornful way pronounce it worthless and only a useless thing to be maintained? Would it not be well, my brother, to halt a moment and consider whether it is not a medium of more value and good than yourself? Why, bless you, your local paper tells you when to go to county, circuit and probate court, and nearly anywhere else you may want to go on this mundane sphere. It tells who is dead and eulogizes their lives according to order, who is married, hurt, sick, and a thousand other things you want to hear. It calls your attention to all public enterprises, advocates good schools, law and order in your county. It rejoices with you in prosperity and sympathizes with you in adversity. It records the marriage of your daughter, and is an index of innumerable souvenirs; the death of your son, the illness of your wife, all free of charge. It booms your town and builds up business, whether you patronize it or not. Now, gentlemen and ladies, can you not have a faint realization of how much you owe your town paper? Really, are you not grateful and thankful that you have the privilege of maintaining such enterprises. Can you think of anything that, after all, brings you more solace and satisfaction than your local paper? —[Ex.]

Count von Reventlow, writing in a German newspaper, severely criticizes Ambassador von Bernstorff for his farewell message to America, and says that his "effusive talk of a heart overflowing with friendship" was inopportune at the present time. He says von Bernstorff must have "lost his sense of proper perspective."

The Herald is very much grieved to learn of the death of our good friend Joel H. Pile, in Washington, Wednesday morning. Mr. Pile was connected with the Post-office Department in Washington, and had been in that city several years. He was also former Superintendent of Breckenridge county schools.

ALMOST FORGOTTEN.

Columbus O.—Like one of the romantic stories of the French Bastille is the tale of John Connelly, who walked forth a free man, after spending 17 years behind the walls of the Ohio penitentiary.

He was like one almost forgotten. In 1900 he stole a horse in Guernsey county, and, having twice been convicted before, was sentenced to the penitentiary as an habitual criminal, which meant indefinitely. When he entered the prison he was in his fifty-first year, and during his incarceration he behaved himself almost without flaw.

Struck by its harshness, the General Assembly long ago repealed the habitual criminal act, but this did not bring Connelly's release. Warden Preston B. Thomas requested Governor Cox, in the interest of justice, to give the old man his freedom on this the seventeenth anniversary of his arrival.

Finding that he had relatives who were willing to take him in, the Governor sent a pardon to him, with the hope that his few remaining years would contain no more trouble.

Armed with his precious paper, the poor prisoner went to the railway station and departed for his old home.

JOEL PILE DEAD

Washington, D. C.—Joel Pile, forty-six years old, a well known former resident of Breckenridge county, Ky., died on the operating table at the eye, ear and throat hospital here, while undergoing an operation.

Mr. Pile had been suffering from an abscess in the middle of his forehead, and, getting no relief, an operation was suggested. It was during the operation that he died. Mr. Pile formerly was School Superintendent of Breckenridge county. Later he entered the pension bureau at Louisville, and when the offices were consolidated he was transferred to Washington. After coming here he was transferred to a better position in the Post-office Department. His wife, formerly a Miss Smith, of Breckenridge county, survives him.

Mr. Pile was well known to the editor of The Herald, having been responsible for him going to Harborsburg several years ago, where he remained some time. If we mistake not Mr. Pile was twice elected Superintendent of Schools in Breckenridge, and was very popular in that county, where he was born and raised.

We THANK YOU.

Olaton, Ky.—Hartford Herald, Hartford, Ky., Gentlemen:—Enclosed please find money order for $2 to pay for one year in arrears and one year in advance.

Washington Notes

(By G. B. Likens.)

February 26, 1917.

The sudden death of Joel H. Pile on last Wednesday was a great shock to his many friends here. Mr. Pile, who was just in the prime of life and a fine specimen of vigorous manhood, expired while undergoing a minor operation for some defect in the frontal sinus at the Episcopal Eye and Throat Hospital in this city. The surgeons seemed puzzled as to the immediate cause of death but their certificate gives it as valvular heart trouble. Mr. Pile first came to Washington as Secretary to Congressman Ben Johnson. Four years ago he was appointed to a responsible position in the Post-Office Department which position he held at the time of his death and was under the civil service. He had a host of friends here as well as in Kentucky. Before his acceptance of a government position he was a leading citizen of Breckenridge county, having been County School Superintendent and otherwise prominent in educational and religious activities. He was indeed one of God's noblemen. To know Joel Pile was to love him. His devoted wife, now heart-broken widow, has our deepest sympathy.

Miss Mallie Ferguson, of the Post Office Department, formerly of South Carrollton, is seriously ill of pleurisy at the George Washington Hospital. Her brother, Dr. J. M. Ferguson, of Central City, and sisters, Mrs. W. C. Gaynor, of Chicago, and Mrs. Frank M. Foulks, of Tampa, Fla., are now here with her.

Roy R. Heavrin, of Hartford, has fully recovered from a recent illness and has resumed his position in the War Department. Roy has received several medals for speed on the writing machine and it is said that he does not have a superior in stenography and typewriting in the government service.

Everett A. Ellis, also of Hartford, has recently been promoted to a more responsible position in the War Department carrying a handsome increase in salary.

Mrs. R. A. Summers, (Elsie Matthews) holds a nice place in the Agricultural Department and is making good. Her mother, Mrs. Heber Matthews, has bought the lease of and furniture in a large rooming house and has taken charge with prospects of success.

Miss Birdie Numan, formerly of South Carrollton, is one of the most popular clerks in the Treasury Department and is living with her sister, Mrs. George Milne, from Owensboro.

Douglas D. Felix, of Hartford, Assistant Clerk of the District Committee, has, by efficiency and courtesy, made himself very popular with the members and those having business before the Committee.

The Clerk, Sam W. Eskew, of Padstown, is one of the busiest men about the House Office Building and is a "tower of strength" to Chairman Johnson in the systematic handling of the many important matters presented for consideration and disposition.

Great preparations are being made for the inauguration, but, owing to the restrictions upon visitors in some departments and the unsettled war conditions, it is not thought the attendance will be as large as usual.

FOR MAGISTRATE.

Having been solicited by my many friends to make the race for Magistrate from the Hartford Magisterial District, I employ this means as placing my name before the people of said district for Magistrate, subject to the action of the Democratic party, Saturday, August 4.

I feel confident that I am capable of filling the office in every particular, and if elected, promise to give my best efforts in fulfilling my duty as a member of your Fiscal Court.

Soliciting your support and influence, I am,
Yours truly,
J. Y. HAGERMAN,
Hartford, Route 1.

MRS. J. G. HALE DEAD.

(Fordsville Special.)

Mrs. Anna Hale, wife of J. G. Hale, died at her father's, Mr. Sam Gaines, on February 20, 1917. She was a faithful christian wife, kind mother and a cheerful companion, friend and neighbor; one who will be missed by her family and friends. She will ever be remembered for her devoted life to her family and the God she served and the Methodist church which she united with their loss.

when just a girl. In the afflictions of over one year with the dreaded disease tuberculosis, she was cheerful and happy. When the end came she left the assurance of faith in her Savior and the home not made with hands. All that was mortal was laid to rest in the cemetery here at Fordsville to await the resurrection. She leaves a husband, two small children, father, mother, two sisters, two brothers and a host of friends to feel in the deepest sense

PROFITABLE SOIL CULTURE

SECRET OF CORN GROWING.

Maintaining a Balance Between Heat, Moisture and Fertility.

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

The secret of successful corn culture is to maintain a proper balance of moisture, heat and fertility. These three factors, together with the nature of the seed, determine yields in all parts of the country.

A change in the supply of one may make a change in another advisable. Thus the moisture requirement varies with the amount of heat available. In addition to water and heat, soil fertility and seed also must be regarded among the chief essentials. No one of these can be said to be more important than another. Where all are abundant except one—as water, for example—this one becomes the limiting factor, and methods of supplying it become the important means of increasing the yield.

Corn possesses characteristics which appear to make it adapted to drought conditions and, on the other hand, has qualities which limit its possibilities as a crop for semiarid regions and call for special adjustments. In producing a given weight of feed or dry matter corn uses less water than certain other crops, as oats, clover and alfalfa. It is deep rooted and can if necessary draw water from a depth of five or six feet. In hot, dry weather the rolling of the blades reduces the loss of water. On the other hand, the heat requirements and peculiar flowering habits of this crop make it less adapted to semiarid regions than other grain or forage crops.

Corn makes its entire growth during the season of highest temperature, growing best when the thermometer registers 80 to 100 degrees F. It cannot grow in early spring or late fall, and its growth is retarded during the summer by cold nights or cool weather. It needs its greatest supply of moisture during the summer weeks when droughts are most likely and when rains are less effective because of losses from evaporation. In other words, the heat requirement of corn prevents growth at times when moisture conditions are likely to be most favorable, while lack of moisture frequently retards growth when heat conditions are most favorable. The problem, therefore, where heat is great and moisture deficient is to store up moisture, and where moisture is plentiful and heat deficient so to handle the soil as to prevent moisture from lessening unduly such heat as may be available.

In the case of corn, which differs in this respect from perfect flowering plants, the setting of seed and the filling of the ears are seriously interfered with by summer droughts. Corn has two kinds of flowers—the tassel or pollen bearer and the seed forming or silk bearing flowers. The pollen from one falling on the silk of the other is necessary to the development of grain. Droughty conditions often hasten the shedding of pollen, but delay the appearance of silks, with the result that the pollen is mostly wasted. If fertilization is prevented in this way no amount of later rain can cause kernels to form or make a good grain yield. The corn crop is sometimes injured by hot winds that do less damage to such crops as alfalfa and the grain sorghums. The problem here is by the choice of planting time and the selection of early maturing or late maturing varieties to bring about the double flowering of the corn at times when drought is least liable to interfere with fertilization.

Everything corn gets from the soil is in liquid form, and the crop cannot grow unless the soil contains moisture to spare.

Irrigating Upland.

Where uplands near and overlooking lowlands are irrigated provision should be made for subdrainage or the filtering of the drainage, as the salts in the upland soils will be carried to the lowlands and damage them for agriculture. This has shown quite clearly in research work following the drainage from irrigated uplands.

PLANTING FRUIT TREES.

Care Should Be Taken Not to Set the Roots Too Deep in Soil.

The beginner in tree planting usually sets his trees too deep rather than too shallow in the relatively heavy soils of Missouri, J. C. Whitten of the department of horticulture of the University of Missouri says.

"Young trees should be selected for planting, and they should be set at the same depth at which they stood in the nursery," Mr. Whitten said. "Trees turn to the northeast and grow crooked because of the warm south and south-west winds during the growing season. The tree should be set with the heavier side to the southwest to avoid this."

"The roots should be trimmed so as not to be cramped and any ragged wounds taken off. Peach trees should be pruned most severely after planting of any of the orchard fruits. Trim all branches off, leaving a single whip; then shorten the whip to a height of about two and one-half feet. Cherry trees should be less severely trimmed. If well branched the center of the tree should be cut out. The Japanese plum tree should be shaped like the peach. Other plum, apple and pear trees, having only a single whip, should be treated likewise. Older trees may be treated like the cherry, with the exception that all branches may be shortened to one-half or one-third of their natural length."

WAY TO CONTROL THE OX WARBLE PEST

Injury by the ox warble amounting to millions of dollars annually could be reduced to almost nothing if stockmen would practice effective practical methods of control, according to G. A. Dean, professor of entomology in the Kansas Agricultural college.

The presence of the ox warble is detected by passing the hand over the back of the animal. The warble may be destroyed by putting kerosene, turpentine or mercurial ointment in or on the opening through the skin directly over the grubs. This treatment should be given when the grubs appear on the backs of cattle, because if the grubs become tough before being killed they are likely to cause sores.

The Aberdeen-Angus breed of cattle have been popular with feeders and butchers. When matured and fattened they show form almost always symmetrical and not bunched or patchy. As beef producers they are hard to equal. The bull shown is an Aberdeen-Angus.

If the opening through the skin is very small it should be enlarged with a smooth, pointed stick. A machinist's oil can having a slender nozzle furnishes an excellent method of applying the medicine. This treatment may be applied rapidly by running the cattle through a chute, with one man stationed on each side provided with an oil can filled with the medicine.

The cattle should be examined from fifteen to twenty days later, and any grubs that escape the first treatment should be squeezed out and crushed. It is important that any grubs squeezed out should be destroyed, else they will transform into adult flies.

The ox warble is one of the worst enemies of cattle, especially in the grazing sections. It is sometimes called botfly and heftly and is also often spoken of as a grub.

In general appearance and size the adult fly, like many other botflies, resembles the common honeybee. It is half an inch long, black and covered with yellowish white and reddish brown and black hairs.

In the spring from the latter part of March to the 1st of May the flies appear about the cattle, laying their eggs upon the legs, especially in the region just above the hoof. It is from this habit of placing the eggs near the heels that they get the name of heftly in the west and southwest.

In 1915 it was estimated that 60 per cent of the cattle in Kansas were infested with warbles. The annual financial loss on damaged hides alone is now estimated for the United States at from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.

Corn Experiment Lesson.

In experiments with corn at the Pennsylvania state college during the last few years heavy seed gave a little better field germination and a little better yield than light seed. Seed from ears which germinated quickly gave a slightly better field germination. Seed selected on the stalk germinated better than seed selected at husking time in an outdoor test. For the single year for which the record was kept. Seed selected at husking in three years' trials, for some unaccountable reason, gave the better field germination. The yields were about alike.

Renew the Litter.

Straw, hay, alfalfa, chaff, leaves and cut corn stover all make good litters. Shavings and sawdust are not best because they tend to pack and also hold dampness. Regardless of the kind of litter used, it should be renewed frequently and never allowed to become badly contaminated with droppings.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Twenty years ago God sent a tiny bud to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Richeson. This bud grew and thrived, and shed her sweetness in and around the home, and was loved by all who knew her, but as she was blooming into womanhood the death angel came and plucked this flower from this cold and unfriendly world and transplanted her in the beautiful garden at the feet of her Maker. On the 7th day of February, 1917, just a little more than one month after she had become a member of Friendship Grove No. 85, W. C., the spirit of Gov. Celia L. Richeson winged its flight to the God who gave it. Therefore be it Resolved, that said Grove has lost a beautiful character and faithful member.

Resolved, 2d, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, and commend them to God who is ever ready to comfort those who are in sorrow.

Resolved, 3d, that a copy of these resolutions be handed the family, a copy sent to the county papers, one spread on our record and one sent to our official paper.

BREMEN WAS NOT LOST

She Never Even Started For America—'Twas Deliberate Ruse To Fool British, Newspaper Says.

Stockholm.—The German merchant submarine Bremen was not lost, and the reports of its failure to reach America was planned deliberately for the purpose of mystification, according to the Aftonbladet.

This newspaper says it learns that a letter received by a German sea captain, who is now visiting Sweden, asserted that the Bremen never was intended for trips to the United States, but on the contrary, from the beginning was to be used as a supply vessel for armed submarines. The Bremen has fulfilled and still is fulfilling her duty of furnishing oil, food, shells and other necessities in a manner which enables fighting submarines greatly to extend their radius of action and prolong their time at sea.

The Bremen's base was not given, but the Aftonbladet's informant is quoted as having said that "it is nearer than you think," and that the departure of the Bremen for the United States was a strategem designed to send Entente ships on a wild-goose chase.

KEEP YOUR LITTLE CALVES IN DRY PENS

When Pens Are Wet Calves Contract Colds.

An important item in the raising of calves is to see that the place in which they are kept is dry. This applies to the overhead as well as to the floor. During severe winter weather the ceiling at times becomes covered with frost. When the warm winter days come along this frost or ice melts, and the water drops down on the calves. If the weather remains warm this probably would not injure the calves much, but usually after a warm day there comes a cold spell. Wet calves and cold weather will soon cause colds.

After a prolonged cold spell the manure accumulates in the stalls. The dampness from the walls and the ceiling and the warmth of the atmosphere cause the bedding to become wet more rapidly than usual.

At times, when a warm day comes along, then the cleaning out is the order of the day. The man who does the work naturally feels warm, and he does not think that the draft coming from the outside is likely to chill the calves. A bad cold and even pneumonia may easily be contracted by little calves in this manner.

The late winter warm days are dangerous, especially for little calves. Stock needs to have great care then as well as during the cold weather. Keep the calves and their stalls dry at all times.

A Card to Owners of Rural Telephone Lines

We are anxious to see that all lines owned by other parties and connected with us are kept in such condition as to furnish efficient service. Where the owners of rural lines are responsible for their upkeep, we want to co-operate with them.

All lines require a thorough overhauling occasionally if the best service is to be obtained. We recommend that every line connected with us be overhauled at least once a year, and that at least one experienced telephone man assist in this work. The cost of this work when divided among all the patrons of the line, makes the amount paid by each man small, and this cost will be more than offset by the improved service.

If the owners of rural telephone lines in this section are experiencing trouble with their service, we will appreciate their talking the matter over with our Manager or writing us fully. We will gladly do what we can toward helping you improve the condition of your line.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITOL

Washington, D. C.—The elimination of the hyphen in the national crisis is strongly gratifying to the Washington authorities. One striking illustration of the patriotic enthusiasm of those who are able to boast of their Teutonic ancestry was shown in Philadelphia recently. At the annual charity ball given in the Academy of Music by the Philadelphia Maennerchor, the great hall was crowded when the orchestra struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." All in the auditorium jumped to their feet and joined in the stirring strains. A huge American flag fell across the rear of the stage and the thousands present burst into cheers. Judging from such spontaneous indications there seems to be no reason to doubt the patriotism of Americans of Teutonic ancestry.

"The United States Navy accepts only men of good moral character and sound physique," was the message sent to a magistrate in an Eastern city the other day by the officer in charge of navy recruiting. Some judges have more than once suspended sentence on convicted criminals on condition that they enlist in the Navy. This practice is not to be tolerated by the Navy for the seamen on Uncle Sam's ships are a high grade, manly set of young men. There is no place for shirkers or criminals in the Navy and the treatment accorded the men is the treatment accorded to gentlemen.

Not only is the Government experimenting along defensive lines against submarines, but against the remote possibility of an air attack by a European nation. A fleet of great air cruisers capable of successfully fighting the greatest dirigible now in existence is in contemplation. One of these cruisers is already being built and before long will take the Government tests. This new airship is to have a great armed bow and will require a crew of five men. It will have a cruising radius of 2,000 miles and remain in the air 24 hours. Its speed, it is hoped, will be over 80 miles an hour and it will carry two tons of high explosives as well as rapid fire guns. This airship, it is believed, will out-Zep the Zeppelins.

The aviation branches of the Army and Navy are being rapidly developed. Every plant in the country that can turn out an aeroplane or part of one is busy. Applications for places in the aviation corps are many and these men are being given instructions as rapidly as machines are provided. It takes at least six months to train an aviator.

Plans are progressing for the second inauguration of President Wilson. Immense stands are being erected in front of the Government buildings on Pennsylvania Avenue and the vanguard of visitors has already come to town. Proprietors of hotels and managers of clubs report that every available room has been spoken for and the only hope of accommodating those who have not spoken is by means of rooms in private houses or apartments.

HE KILLED HIMSELF.

A man committed suicide because of a melancholy conviction that he was his own grandfather, and here is the letter he left behind him. No wonder he killed himself:

I married a widow with a grown up daughter. My father visited our house very often, fell in love with my stepdaughter, and married her. So my father became my son-in-law, and stepdaughter my mother, because she was my father's wife. Soon afterward my wife had a son—he was my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my stepmother. My father's wife, i. e., my stepdaughter, also a son. He was of course, my brother, and in the meantime my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time. And as the husband of one's grandmother is his grandfather I was my own grandfather.—[Ex.]

Step Inside.

New York.—This sign is displayed in the window of a grocery store at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street and Broadway. The owner means it. The onion is really for sale.

It isn't a very big onion. It isn't a Bermuda or a Spanish onion. Just the coated bulb of a biennial herb of the family liliaceae. But it's an ONION! And, as everybody knows, an onion is an onion today, and you can't eat Bethlehem Steel nor its gilded certificates.

The owners says he can give a clear title. Better than that, he can give you the onion. Come on with your Bethlehem Steel and weep.

POSTAGE $10 AN OUNCE.

San Francisco has had an interesting history. The first settlement dates from 1776. The United States flag was raised over the town in 1846. Two years later the city had an estimated population of 20,000, caused by the influx of fortune seekers. The first regular overland mail communication with the East was established by pony express in 1860, the charge for postage being $5 for half an ounce.—[Popular Science Monthly.]

MOST EXPENSIVE RAILROAD IN THE WORLD

The most expensive railroad in the world, we are told in the March American Magazine, is the Garfield and Bingham Railroad that carries ore to the gigantic copper mines of D. C. Jackling at Bingham, Utah. It cost three hundred thousand dollars a mile and is all tunnels and trestles. It was built for the sole purpose of ensuring an adequate supply of ore for the mill.

GUARDIAN

Appointed For Mrs. Madeline Force Astor-Dick's Son—Expenses Reach $72 Daily.

New York.—It was revealed in Surrogate's Court that it cost Mrs. Madeline Force-Astor-Dick $72 a day last year to keep four-year-old John Jacob Astor, her son by her marriage with the late Colonel John Jacob Astor.

This was learned through the appointment by the Surrogate of Cornelius J. Sullivan, counsel for the Children's Society, to act as special guardian to the heir of the multimillionaire who went down with the Titanic.

Sullivan will be expected to scrutinize purchases made for the boy and make certain that the juvenile millionaire is not overcharged for the menagerie of artificial wild beasts that is bought annually for his amusement. Attorney Sullivan must also brush up his knowledge of the proper amounts to be paid for children's wearing apparel and toys for one piece of headgear purchased for young Astor cost $16.50, while another cost $10.50.

SOME READABLE DON'TS.

Don't argue with the inevitable. The only argument available with an east wind is to put on your overcoat.

Don't preach too much. None preaches better than the ant, and she says nothing.

Don't waste your feelings. Feelings are too rich cream to be skimmed for nothing.

Don't be too patient. "Once in a while," said Uncle Eben, "a man compliments himself on having patience when he's simply too lazy to make a kick."

Don't pack up worries. You can get them anywhere as you go along.

Don't let your stream of life be a murmuring stream.

Don't use a pile driver to pin on a bow of ribbon.

Don't measure success by accumulation, for this measure is false.

Don't talk over "prevailing conditions." Just make friends with your luck.

Don't fail to love your neighbors, yet pull not down your hedge.

Don't fill yourself with unnecessary work. There was once a New England woman whose epitaph read, "She hath done what she couldn't."

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

The Thrice-A-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Hartford Herald together for one year $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

SHELTER FOR SHEEP.

Plans For a Barn Should Include Dry Floors and Abundance of Air.

It is impossible to suggest any very definite sheep barn plans without knowing under just what conditions the barn is to be built. In planning barns or sheds for a breeding flock of sheep a space of ten or twelve square feet per ewe will give sufficient room. The essentials of shelter for sheep are (1) dry floor, (2) good roof, (3) an abundance of fresh air, (4) avoid drafts, (5) avoid narrow doors and passages so a ewe heavy with lamb will not be injured, and (6) provide sufficient feeding trough space so all the sheep can eat at the same time.

We find that a shed twenty-five or thirty feet wide and as long as necessary to house the flock gives very good results at the Missouri agricultural experiment station. It should be open on the south and may be built with a feed trough and feed alley along the north side. Economy of rack space may be secured by the use of movable racks so arranged as to make as many lots as are needed in the shed. These partition racks can be moved out of the way whenever a wagon is driven in to be loaded with manure. The shed should be high enough to afford plenty of loft room. As we feed baled hay, a loft five feet high at the eaves gives us room enough to store a winter's supply for the flock, but if loose hay is put in and fed correspondingly more loft room must be provided.—Professor H. Hackel.
